Request accommodations

Article • 03/22/2022 • 3 minutes to read • 2 contributors

In this article

- When an accommodation is needed
- How to request exam accommodations
- Testing accommodations with Pearson (individuals)
- Testing accommodations with Certiport (academic institutions)

When an accommodation is needed

We're committed to ensuring that every person who's interested in taking Microsoft Certifications can do so in a way that is fair and accurately reflects their skills and abilities. This means providing accommodations when needed. Accommodations can include special equipment for those with low vision or who are hard of hearing, breaks for medical reasons, or extra time for testing because the exam is not in your native language.

Examples of situations requiring accommodations include but are not limited to needing:

- Extra time due to a temporary or permanent condition, such as ADHD, PTSD, or anxiety during exams.
- A multiple monitor setup or physical magnification device if you are a person with low vision.
- To use noise cancelling headphones or a white noise device to improve focus.
- A reader/scribe to assist with the check-in process and/or to take the exam.

Because the proctoring process is designed to ensure the integrity of the certification process, it involves a strict set of guidelines that are used to monitor candidates during the exam. As a result, you may need to request an accommodation for behaviors that the proctor may flag as potential security violations if they are not aware of the reason for them. For example, you may also require an accommodation if you:

- Move around the room during the exam to improve focus.
- Move around the room or stand during the exam because of difficulty remaining seated for extended

Use and share certification badges

Article • 05/24/2021 • 5 minutes to read • 3 contributors

About digital badges

You will earn badges for passing exams that are part of a multiple-exam-certification and for earning certifications. Sharing your achievements with the world via a digital badge is a great way to let others know about your skills.

Badges are digital representations of your achievements, consisting of an image and metadata uniquely linked to you. When someone views your badge, they can learn more about your skills and verify the badge's authenticity —providing an easy way for someone to confirm your skills.

When you share your digital badge on popular sites, such as LinkedIn, Facebook, and Twitter, or when you embed it into your resume, personal website, or email signature, anyone who sees your badge will immediately recognize it as a trusted Microsoft validation of your achievement.

About the Credly platform

Microsoft partners with Credly to provide you with a way to manage, share, and verify your Microsoft Certifications. The platform also gives you labor market insights that can help you explore job opportunities that match your skills. Through Credly and their partner Gartner TalentNeuron™, you get 24/7 access to more than 25,000 global job boards and corporate career sites.
